Chittcliffe College

Katowah, India

My dear Sir,
I received your letter of the 10th inst.

relative to the fact of Mr. 100 having been all the while paid of his substantial application to the Secretary of the office for this office to find him in the state of complete insolvency and as I have no right to make any statement upon the subject to you, I am permitted to say that 29th April 1900 deputation allowance @ 20 per Cent is claimable in addition to the full salary of the substantive appointment held by the officer on deputation.

As this ruling has not been adhered to in all Major Douglas Case, I would suggest your request to bring the matter before the Committee of the Army Master General, and act upon the recommendation of the Civil Department, and to have the case made a precedent for the consideration of this House, the other House of Officers, Major in relation to the full salary of pay of an officer on deputation, which is a matter of importance of the Army Master General and to have allowance when off duty for the same as under Article XXXI of the Army Regulations, and to have the same as the full salary of pay
of an officer on deputation, which

which he is acting -

Principal, Presidency College

In reference to communication from the Presidency College 25th that with every programme of lectures furnished by me the subject of which each Clap have been arranged upon. It is probable that the Director may intend to refer to the absence of a general course for the entire Session.

The first Clap will be confined to General Jurisprudence including Roman Law as far as properly included under that head.

The second Clap (of which the Junior Division will on Monday have completed their jurisdiction in a Law Course) will in both Divisions lecture upon the English Law of tracts.

The Senior Division of the 2^d Clap and the third Clap are now being lectured upon the English Law of Property and English Procedure.

Upon the termination of the Property Course (probably in about 2 months) the 1st Class will enter upon a course of instruction in Municipal Law.

At the same time the 2nd Class will be instructed in the Principles of the Law of Contracts & will be lectured on some of the Principles of the Law of Property as the Senior position occupied by the last year's 2nd Class will already have passed through several subjects which are new to the Juniors of the Class.

The above routine carries out the general Scheme and System approved of by His Honor the Lieut.
Governor when explained by me in reply to the reference made by the letter of the Offg. Director of 27th July 1859.

been a great measure made good Mr Wood's statement about this school in his report for the preceding year "The sons of the rich citizens of the Metropolis are congregated together in the Sunday School. Few, very few of these wealthy students pass the initial entrance examination and gain admission to the higher classes." This circumstance cannot be without a depressing effect on the officers and Bengal Narrative No. 6 of 1859, dated 11 February.

9 to 12. Modification of the Rule under which European Officers in the Educational Department are encouraged to study the Vernacular languages.

PARA. 3. It should henceforth be made imperative upon all Europeans appointed to the Educational Department to pass within a given period an Examination which shall prove that they possess a sufficient colloquial knowledge of the Vernacular language of the District in which they are employed failing which their services should be dispensed with. All persons now employed in the Department should be required to satisfy the Director of Public Instruction within a given period that they possess such a knowledge. The pecuniary rewards should only be given for highly distinguished acquirements in the Native languages. Ordinary colloquial acquaintance with them is indispensable necessary to the efficient performance of their duties by those who are employed in the Department of Education and must be insisted upon by Government.

As thatches of combustible materials are no longer suffered to remain in any part of the town, it is necessary to pull down the Durwan and Foran rooms, and the half-thatched Veranda in front of the Math room, and to make the pucca as soon as possible.

Sloping Verandas all along the north and south sides of the school building and Shikharis below the existing Veranda upon the entrance into the houses are absolutely necessary to protect it from the rain and sun. The erection of two walls in the northern hall, with two doors in each, at about 25 feet distance from the eastern and western ends of the hall, so as to make a room on each side, will be of very great convenience for the purpose of teaching, in as much as the two rooms will accommodate at least four of the classes now in the hall, and then considerably diminish the noise that is now occasioned from nearly 300 boys being assembled in one hall.

no request for permission to be so absent.

He has returned to duty this morning & when I asked his reason for not attending duty yesterday he said he had a sore foot.
The master of the class said he had first explained that the death of some one kept him from coming.

I would respectfully beg to recommend that some notice be taken of the weak & indifferent manner in which this student has for some time past been performing his

I can get him to perform his work with the appearance of interest in it. And when on some recent occasions when one of the occupy the boys a little longer with the Panchang he at first refused to do so and at last when he did comply it was only to sit in the

A. Smith Esq^r M.A.

Principal of the

Keshnaghur College

Fort William, dated 22nd March 1860

Sir,

Referring to the subject of your No 55 and 56 respectively dated letters marginally noted I have the 10th and 20th March 1860 - I the honor to observe that the difficulty in this case has arisen out of the reference made to my office in my absence by Mr.
Hastings on the 22nd December, a reference which appears to have been unnecessary although occurring as it did in vacation time, it was productive of no great inconvenience. Mr. St. John might properly have required to recognize Mr. Hastings as any longer in the Presidency College Establishment after the 22nd December as from that date the latter gentleman belonged, strictly speaking, to the Keshnaghur College, but was Mr. Whitcliffe allowed him to remain in his Establishment until the 31st December I agree with you that he might have extended that recognition until the 8th January; as nothing had in the mean time occurred to alter Mr. Masters position.

2^d On the whole then I think the best plan will be to consider Mr. Masters as attached to the Presidency College Establishment up to

To

Ser

I have the honor to address you upon three heads or subjects for consideration by the Director of Public Instruction and for submission to the Honble the Lieutenant Governor Viz:

- 1 The formation of a Law Library.
- 2 The appointment of an Assistant Lecturer on the Laws of India.
- 3 The removal of the site of the Law Lecture rooms to one more general convenient.

1 There is at present in the College a collection of works on Law and Judicial Science of a miscellaneous character. The Collection is useful as far as it goes for reference: but for purposes of study it can be of little avail, owing to the large number of students (20 or within the mark) who must, on the average be studying the same subject (and therefore the same sort of books).

that a "Law Library" which is deficient in either Reports or Statutes -

And it is not unimportant here to direct attention to the only class who bear analogy, slight as it is, to the students of the Law Department of the Presidency College, viz: the students of the London Inns of Court -

These all have overflowing libraries to resort to. few are without ample resources for reading at home, and the greater number are private pupils in the Chambers of a law practitioner, where books and other aids to instruction are at hand. I have obtained a list from one of the principal Calcutta book-sellers of the lowest Cash prices at which some standard English Law Books can (in case several copies be ordered) be obtained viz:

Taylor on Evidence	31 8 -
Addison on Contracts	19 - -
Williams on Real Property	9 - -
D. on Personal D.	8 - -
Ken's Blackstone	21 - -

Cashed for Rs 68 8 - brought forward

Broome's Commentaries		88 8
Smith's Leading Cases		10 10
Smith's Mercantile Law		26 4
Spence's Synodical Jurisdiction		18
	Total Rupees	188 4

Taking this list to be an average of the sort and of the number of books (or these or their equivalents) essentially required in English Law alone; it may fairly be inferred, that if the Students of the Government School of Law here are directed (as they certainly should be, other sources of private study not being provided) to supply themselves with such treatises and Commentaries only as they should be furnished with, in order to complete their Law Studies, the Government the educational authority must impose on each no less an expense in the whole than - say Rs 200. Even then the object is not accomplished, if the library of the Student would be after all meagre and no means afforded for studying the sources of information

152

He must be content to reach the fronts and springs of knowledge -

On the other hand, were the Government, as incident to their undertaking to teach law, to supply a reasonably sufficient number of text books, an immediate outlay of - say Rs 2000 would be called for, and if, in addition, upon the grounds I have urged, were furnished a stock library of Reports (the Statutes at large are I believe already available), there would be a present further outlay of - say (to begin with) Rupes 2000 - To meet this, as well as the constantly recurring calls for keeping up and replenishing the Library, I suggest a library - fee or imports of 5 Rupes fees -

This, I think, should be confined to the students of the 2^d and 3^d year (without any exception); as the first or jurisprudence class are not in want of a law library. The additional yearly fund thus obtained may fairly be estimated at 3000 Rs - This, I believe, that half the library allowance to the Residency College be for the next year applied for the benefit of the Law Departments. This will furnish another Rs 600.

Probably some further and immediate available source will suggest itself to the Director so as to avoid (my chief object in these suggestions) the delay of an appeal to the Supreme Government, or at any rate to the Home Authorities.

I think a really competent person scilicet - a graduate or an advanced student in law) should be appointed in charge of the library, whose duty it might be, to assist and superintend the students, with commensurate salary or advantages. It might be a prize for the best qualified examinee of the 2nd year, who should be exempt from fees with a salary of say Rs 50/-

If the Chaper be thus furnished with the pabulum and sinews of knowledge, books, they may be fitly devoted to Law students. At present the majority have to cope with difficulties

189 and amount of resources such as place the goal (solid sound knowledge of law and jurisprudence, even to the extent required for the B.L. degree), in many instances quite out of reach. Moreover, a necessity is thus imposed upon Professors to shape their lectures in an elementary and merely deductive form, an abnormal state of things, which has its disadvantages -

2 The range of subjects for lecture is it is needless to observe, very extensive.
A particular Classification to embrace all, may be as follows -

- 1 Principles of Juridical Science
- 2 The Civil Law or Roman Jurisprudence (after Ostolow)
- 3 English Law of Contracts
- 4 do do Property (real & personal)
- 5 do do Torts or Actionable Wrongs
- 6 do do Evidence & Civil Procedure at Common Law
- 7 do Criminal Law and Procedure
- 8 Doctrines and Procedure of English Courts of Equity -
- 9 Hindu Law of Succession and Contract
- 10 Mahomedan do do
- 11 Laws of Land in the B. of British India

- 12 Remedies and Procedure (Dewanny and Revenue) of the Bengal Mofussil
13 Criminal law of the Bengal
Mofussil

To these might be added an occasional course upon each of the following subjects -

- 1 English Constitutional Law and History
- 2 Conflict of laws and Comparative Jurisprudence
- 3 International Law
- 4 Questions of the Civil Law
- 5 Judicial and Forensic Oratory -

I have, in my reports last year, when replying to the questions of the Local Governor, explained how the Studies at present generally divided, during the three years of the College Course. The English Law lectures may be otherwise and comprised in five general heads, viz. Contracts, Property, Evidence, Criminal Law and Procedure. The more immediate division affords a longer period i.e. more lectures -

The Study of Mofussil and Law is usually entered on in the 2^d quarter of the third year. After a course of study in jurisprudence and English Law, the Student is without difficulty and advantageously introduced to the law administered in the courts established by the East India Company -

This is taught by a historical review of the original establishment and progress of British rule and legislation in India, its policy and maxims, trace the systems of Judicature, of landed tenure and of revenue. Then, the existing enactments in detail (judicial, Revenue and Judiciary) are reviewed, and their practice explained. Finally, expositions or lectures are given of leading decisions of the Sudder Dewanny Court, shewing the differences and comparison of the general law and practice of that Court with and with English and other laws.

The second branch of this course (see the enactments, &c) requires rather practical acquaintance with the working and system, than juridical training and this no difficult matter to find a Hindu official or pleader well qualified in that respect, as well as to meet on

Hurd law, who would be a valuable aid to the responsible instructor in the English and Native laws. I do not ask for this, because I shrink from labor or responsibility
- we get on very fairly as we are, but I make the suggestion, nor will it, I trust appear to his Honor or to his advisors as unreasonable one. The salary might be $1200. If such further assistance be conceded, and it be desired to limit as far as possible the increased expense, then additional lecturer might also be required to serve the office of Librarian and Superintendent of Studies as above described -

Under the present scheme each Class (as a rule) is lectured three times a week - The first Class are now being lectured (by myself) in the Roman Law prudence (3 times), the second class (by myself) in the English Law of Contracts (twice), the Senior Division of the same Class and the third Class, by the Assistant Professor, in the English Law of Property and Procedure (3 times); so that one set of students just now attend 5 lectures.
This is owing to their having been degraded from their former year. The third Class will in a month commence their study of the Mofussil laws -

161

3 I am unwilling further to lengthen this letter by detailing the grounds, (which I think must be obvious) of any third suggestion; viz. removal of the site of the law lectures near ^{to} the European quarter of the City -

For all instruction and study coming within the exclusive scope of the plan of the old Hindustan College, the present site is adapted and so far as Government desire that their School of Law should in its aims and action, be confined within that scope, no change is needed. In any other view the site is obscure and inconvenient. Considering the bearing and influence which judicious lectures might have on the encouragement and direction of law studies, and thus upon the interests of the public and the courts, it would I think, be well that the arrangements for lectures should invite a wider patronage.
This object will be also further served when improved resources for study have removed the necessity (above noticed), that the lectures be, as a rule, strictly didactic.

elementary, scil. teacher's lessons rather than professional readings or exposition.

I am decidedly of opinion that no student attending the General Department of the President's College should be encouraged (if permitted) to be enrolled as a Government Law Student beyond the preliminary or jurisprudence Class, and if my view in this respect be adopted, it at once does away with an objection raised to change of side, viz. disavowing to the students of the General Department who are also Law Students. There are now called "out students," which is surely a misnomer. With respect to those who are really out students (i.e. not of the College or the Department) they should I think to think, be independent both of the control and of the protection of Government. Law Students to be so with advantage should here, as elsewhere, have already completed their career of general education.

Among the 44 members of the present 2^d Class or year of the Law Department there are twelve belonging to the General Department. I have explained

162 to them my views to which they offer an objection, and some openly admit the force and correctness of those views - I have advised them to confine their attention for another year (i.e. until they have attained the Arts degree) to their general Scholastic Studies. They have however paid their out student fees for this Session -

This kind of recommendation seems to be intimately connected with another which has been often alluded to and discussed, but not yet formally proposed; I therefore add it as supplemental to and necessarily arising out of what precedes, viz: the separation of the Law Department of education from the Presidency College - If the Studies be altogether separate, of course no convenient purpose can be answered by uniting what may be called, the administration. The Law Department is an incubus on the College. The Principal is our channel of communication, but he is and must be virtually alien to the working of the Department, of which I have the sole responsibility -

I recommend a separation - the time has not yet come when law instruction can afford (however politic or advisable such a change) the de-members of the Medical and Civil Engineering branches; but the step recommended would I think be in advance the general education of Law students does not in any way depend upon the material connection of the Law School with the Mathematical and Literary Schools; although it be expected that the Law students have already passed with credit through these Schools -

The Faculty have recently been very (I presume to thank too) liberal in their invitation to consider for academic distinction in juridical sciences. Attendance on any lecture for two years and tolerable acquaintance with certain specified text books of very moderate range, qualify for the degree

Stephens Blackston and William on real Property and the English Law
Authorities -

This indulgence in framing a test for the lowest academic honours the examining body should not submit unless the views and policy of Government the Official Educator

In conclusion, I desire to record my conviction, the result of experience, that the interests of Government and of the public, would be best secured, and more consistent provision made for those important professional offices and duties, which after all, are the goal and purpose of our law education, if submission to a curriculum of discipline, as law students, for 4 or 5 years at least, were made the condition of Government aid and liberality.

Principal of the Sunday School

Sir

I think it necessary to draw to the notice of the Secretary, before he writes a piece, the numerous terms of the regulations you inform me exist, with reference to our work in the same department.

I understand that the terms of the rule state, that an individual must pay a subscription for each course of lectures which is intelligible; but the construction put upon those words is certainly peculiar.

At present, if a lecture is held more than once, and contained in the same lecture book, that of one person is to teach a subscription and a lecture, and if the lecture is held more than once, but two courses of lectures.

Surely this cannot be within the reason or spirit and therefore not within the right construction of the rule. See Bonlow's office Sunday School 1851.

under me such assistance as I require This would of course be, usually, to give lectures upon distinct and entire subjects But in a comprehensive, and multiplicity view or detached subject, such as the case of Contract, the course may very conveniently be commenced by me and of which my hands be full (by being obliged to have like a new day and new subject e.g. the subject of law in jurisprudence wherein I reserve to myself the most important and important to complete the contracted lectures is read on the subject. After I am shortly about to do The third clip will give Mr Boulton lecture - course when he has completed his lecture of the English law of property and will commence with one the clip subject the second clip will then complete the course of English contracting on the law of which I am now lecturing then I am Mr Boulton. As the accidental change to subject the 20 out students to double first a new one, and I think its decision have suggested would be a liberal and prudent concession to lecturers, and an essential benefit to the public and therefore to Government.

I should propose to fix my fee for the public portion of my course at an average to equal for a course that paid by a College student say Rs. 10 per month, e.g. if a course promised to last five months - Rs. 50. -

Those who did not like to be subjected to the regulations of the College of the Government School, the privilege to select courses of lectures can be not part of that discipline, it is a different affair and should be treated so.

I have the

FORT WILLIAM, CIVIL AUDIT OFFICE.
The 29th May 1865.

The Principal of the ... College

Sir,

I beg to offer the following suggestions with a view to decrease unnecessary correspondence.

1. As the transmission of Bills to this Office can only be for the purpose of audit, it is quite unnecessary that they should ever be accompanied with a transmitting letter. The process of auditing generally occupies two days, or, in other words, Bills are returned by the Post of the day after that on which they are received. Circumstances sometimes occur rendering more despatch necessary, and when this is the case, a small piece of paper marked with the word "urgent" and (to prevent abuse) the initials of the transmitting Officer, and pinned to the corner of the Bill, will always ensure my prompt attention.

2. Should cases occur when you may find it necessary to call my attention to former correspondence, to ask for returns of Vouchers, or otherwise to notice any delays or errors of a clerical nature, I would much prefer being furnished with a memorandum on a small slip of paper (say one-eighth of a sheet of foolscap) briefly stating what is required of me, to a long formal letter, which involves time and cost in your Office as well as in my own.

3. On occasions of making over and receiving charge of Office; as a mere record of the fact is all that is needed by me to make the necessary entries in my Books, it will be quite sufficient to furnish me with one letter (or memorandum) signed by the relieved and the relieving Officer. Trivial as such a matter may appear, this alone will save my Office the labor of docketing, registering, and indexing about 1,200 letters per annum.

I need scarcely point out to you the saving of clerical labour, as well as of actual expense involved above, and I would be glad to receive any further suggestions at your hands by which our correspondence may be lightened or simplified without detriment to the Public Service.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

HUGH SANDEMAN,

Officiating Civil Auditor.

Dear Sir,
 I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst. in relation to the purchase of a copy of the "History of the City of Providence" for the use of the School of the Holy Trinity. I have the pleasure to inform you that a copy of the same has been forwarded to you by express of the 12th inst. and is at your service. I am, Sir, very respectfully, Yours, &c.
